

Enhancements to Advanced Report Exports

Last modified on 01/27/2026 3:45 pm EST

The Advanced Report section of DrChrono allows you to construct reports that are specific to your practice and your needs. Sometimes the amount of data is large and needs to be broken into multiple reports. We have made a few enhancements to assist.

1. Under Reports > Advanced Reports, one of the first changes you will see is with the row count. It will now show you the number of rows visible on your screen (50 in this example) and the total number of rows that fit the criteria selected (1,422 in this example).

2. Reports in the Message Center—When the reports are exported to your message center, they could come in separate files depending on the amount of data included. The last file will have a file name labeled "final_part."

3. There is now a date/time stamp on the right of the screen.

The screenshot shows the 'Advanced Report' interface. At the top, there are tabs for 'Appointments', 'Patients' (which is selected), and 'Procedure Code'. To the right of the tabs, a red arrow points to the text 'Data As of: 01/15/2026 2:24PM'. Below the tabs is a row of filter buttons: 'Saved Filters', 'Patient Filters', 'Appointment Filters', 'Appointment Status', 'Billing Status', 'Copay Method', and 'Insurance Status'. A message 'No filters selected' is displayed. Below the filters is a search bar with dropdowns for 'Include' and 'Excluded', a 'Show' dropdown set to '50 per page', and buttons for 'Update Filter' and 'Save Filter'. At the bottom of the interface is a row of buttons: 'Send Email', 'Create Patient Group', and 'Export to File'. The bottom-most row of the interface has columns for 'Date of Service', 'Patient', 'Provider', 'Office', 'Examroom', 'Appt Status', 'Billing Status', 'Insurance Status', and 'Lock Status', with the 'Patient' column highlighted in yellow.
