Updated: May *Non-SQL database version only. SQL database is not supported for this EHR import.

(1): Chirotouch EHR migrations are accepted on a case-by-case basis, after an extensive review of the data provided.

(2): AdvancedMD only provides raw SQL data for clinical notes. Please be aware that DrChrono is currently unable to convert this raw clinical data to a viewable file compatible with our system. We highly recommend you recruit a third-party developer to convert the raw note data.

(3): GE Centricity database-stored documents are incompatible with DrChrono.

Note: Billing/AR data is non-transferrable between EHRs. DrChrono does not import account balances, payments nor other financial data.

Don't see your EHR software system listed above?

DrChrono is committed to expanding the compatibility list to ensure transferring data from your software vendor goes as smoothly and as quickly as possible. However, not all data presented for analysis can be imported into DrChrono. Please contact your DrChrono representative to discover how to have your EHR export data analyzed and potentially imported.
